This day breaks with thanksgiving and praise at hand to God, the enabler. We are delighted to present the 23rd edition of Livinghope magazine to you. All the days of my appointed time will I wait until my change comes. There are changes that are to be expected and waited for to happen while there are others that mere waiting without a preventive corresponding action will worsen and aggravate the dangers. The problems of climate change are demanding of us a corresponding action if humanity will still continue to live on the earth and the human civilization is to be preserved. Climate change may sound new being presented as a title, but in reality, we're all at one time or the other being confronted with one of the negative effects of the change. The Preface to Cover in agreement with the spirit of doing what is right as opposed to just knowing what is right also calls for action when it is deemed imperative and useful. This package also contains educative and thought-provoking information from discourse from areas covering the needed day-to-day encouragements for purposeful living, relevant tips on mental health, insight into the nitty gritty of international politics, updates on world affairs with an interview that tries to fix blames and problems on the ongoing Russia-Ukraine War, and lots more of other revelatory materials for your reading pleasure.

We are unrelenting in our resolve for consistency as well as high quality packaging. We also are not tired of asking for your collaborations with a view to helping out through your general supports, both in kind and otherwise. Our platforms are available and effective for your advertisement needs. Don't forget also to visit us using all our social media platforms and engage with us. We cannot end this piece without appreciating the contributions of all writers as well as administrative support persons for the invaluable contributions made so far. You are a blessing, and you shall remain a vessel to be blessed. Happy reading and God bless.
